Tulsa Botanical Gardens and Philbrook Museum Landscaping Delight All!

Although a bit cool, it was a lovely day to walk in the gardens. The Tulsa Botanical Gardens opened in 2016 and they have made considerable progress since then, with many new areas under construction. The Philbrook properties likewise have such interesting sculptures and displays that there was something of interest to everyone. The highlight for us all was the gorgeous displays of tulips of all varieties and color. You will see many examples in this supplement of photos. Thanks to all those who shared them—Lois Cox, Jerry Miller, Rahmona Thompson and Judy Kautz. And thanks to Susan Aikman and the Tour Committee for handling all the details! We had a memorable day!
